To Whom It May Concern:

RE: David Casuto

I have had the pleasure of working with Mr. Casuto for several years in his role as faculty member here at the Osher Lifelong Learning Institute (OLLI) at San Francisco State University. He has taught numerous courses with us since fall, 2006. These include:

Creating Multimedia Memoirs
Digital Photography
Word, Excel for Beginners
Email and Internet Basics
Intro to Photoshop
Intro to Social Media

All of these courses had high enrollments and were very well received by our students, and they keep returning to his classes each session. His Multimedia Memoir class was an especially popular class this past year and gave the students a great deal of satisfaction in learning new programs and presenting their completed projects on You Tube for viewing to the public and at other OLLI events. Mr. Casuto's special skills in working with our over 50 population are patience, humor and expertise in teaching new computer programs to older adult learners. Everyone has enjoyed attaining higher levels of skills in his classes.

Mr. Casuto is an asset to our community, and I would highly recommend him for any position he wished to pursue. If you have any further questions, please do not hesitate to contact me.

Sincerely,

Debra M. Varner
